A name chant for Saint Marianne

(underlined syllables are downbeats when singing as traditional mele oli, provided by Puakea Nogelmeier)

Saint Marianne of Moloka'i, (1838-1918) was a German-born American religious sister who was a member of the Sisters of St Francis of Syracuse, New York. In 1883, at the request of King Kalākaua, she and six other sisters enthusiastically moved to Hawai'i to care for the patients of Hansen's Disease and other hospital establishments. Moving to Kalaupapa in 1885 shortly before Fr. Damien died, she continued her ministry to the patients, especially at the Baldwin Girls' Home. She remained in Kalaupapa until her death in 1918.
